Internet Appendix

Machine Markets: Current Numerical Evidence

Pratik Niroula and Prashant Niroula

October 8, 2026

This appendix retains the full current numerical ledgers and stated inference boundaries. The main manuscript contains the central proofs, financial contracts and substantive empirical results and remains self-contained. This additional material documents all fixed constructions rather than selecting favorable outcomes.

The following evidence pages retain strict recorder completeness, six-horizon original-panel lag controls, calendar covariance sensitivity, fee references, maintained-model restrictions, joint association, switching forecasts, financial replays, January forecasts and the equity-source reconstruction.

This is a pre-submission review candidate. Author affiliations and individual disclosures remain pending confirmation. Source rights, financial calibration, scientific novelty and independent specialist review are not certified by this appendix or by formatting.